

Some on-line resources for published literature

Here is a short list of some on-line sources that could be useful for your paper assignment. This list is not complete and you may find others.

The university library page for engineering data bases.....

http://www.uri.edu/library/reference_databases/engin.html

Some useful ones are.....

- IEEE Xplore
- NACA
- INSPEC
- Energy Citations

For the life sciences.....

http://www.uri.edu/library/reference_databases/life.html

Some useful ones are.....

- JSTOR
- Oceanic Abstracts

Others on the general web

<http://www.dosits.org/>

<http://scholar.google.com/>

<http://citeseer.ist.psu.edu/>

<http://www.sea-technology.com/>

Note on Wikipedia: You can't deny that wikipedia.org is a useful tool. You must however realize that the information posted there does not undergo a formal review process. To use it you need to follow up by looking at the References given at the bottom of the page. You should try and track these down to the original sources. Just citing Wikipedia does not count!

Some specific journal names

Journal of the Acoustical Society of America

IEEE journal of oceanic engineering

Deep-sea research. Part I, Oceanographic research papers

Oceanography

Journal of geophysical research. JGR. Oceans

Oceanus (Woods Hole)